POLICE FIGHT A WAY TO SAFETY

Arrest Of A Negro On A Housetop Causes A General Race
Riot In The "San Juan" Hill District Of The City.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE)

New York, July 15.—"San Juan Hill," the district bounded by Amsterdam and West End avenues and Sixty-First and Sixty-Third streets, so called because of its notoriety as a battle ground, was the scene Friday night of a furious race riot, which required 250 policemen to quell, after many shots had been fired and several persons had been seriously injured.

The trouble began shortly after 9 o'clock, when a policeman arrested Edward Connelly for attacking Henry Williams, a negro, and was pursued to the station house with his prisoner by a mob of Connelly's friends, hurling showers of stones and other missiles.

When the station house reserves turned out the whole neighborhood was in an uproar and blacks engaged in desperate struggles in the streets. Torrents of missiles were hurled from the roofs and windows. Within ten minutes not less than a thousand men, boys and women, black and white, were engaged in furious combat.

Police Are Overpowered.

The small party of police were powerless, and reinforcements were summoned. On their arrival a cordon was drawn around the whole district, and strong patrols made repeated charges down the streets in a vain effort to restore order.

They succeeded in making a few prisoners and were forced to retreat, fighting every inch of the way, and pursued to the station house by a howling mob.

The worst of the fighting was in Sixty-Second street, where from every window and from every roof rained missiles, while hundreds of shots were fired. Roundsmen Patrick Walsh was knocked down by Joseph B. Smith, a negro, who leaped upon him from a stoop, and after attempting to shoot him struck him repeatedly with the butt of his revolver. Walsh was finally rescued by his comrades.

Calls Re-enforcements.

Inspector McLaughlin arrived shortly before 9 o'clock, and, realizing how widespread was the danger, sent hasty calls for reserves from as far north as One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth street and as far south as Leonard street, from the East Side and from the West Side. In all there were more than 250 men under command.

East Bound Eighteen Hour Flyer Hits
a Wrecked Freight Train Near Harrisburg.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE)

Harrisburg, Pa., July 15.—The Pennsylvania flyer, eastbound, the new eighteen-hour train from Chicago to New York, struck a wrecked freight while running at top speed near here early this morning. The freight train had buckled, throwing a car across the passenger track. The flyer struck the car and hurled it from the track. The engineer of the flyer jumped when he saw the obstruction and was severely injured. The engine of the flyer was considerably damaged.

NEW HAMPSHIRE TO ACT AS THE HOST

State Will Entertain the Peace Envoys at the Coming Conference.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE)

Washington, July 15.—The state of New Hampshire will be granted the honor of entertaining the Russian-Japanese peace plenipotentiaries during the period of the conference at Portsmouth. The envoys with their families will be lodged at the Hotel Wentworth. No expense will be spared to provide for the comfort and entertainment of the distinguished guests, and it is expected to cost the state from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars.

Lion Afraid of Ostrich.

There is only one thing of which the lion is afraid, and that is the ostrich. The bird is more fleet than the quadruped, and it can deliver its terrible kick with the impact of a pugilist's blow and spring away till it gets another opening. Such tactics naturally disgust the superior being.

MAINE FEELS SHOCK OF AN EARTHQUAKE

Little Atlantic State Suffers From Several Distinct Vibrations.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE)

Portland, Maine, July 15.—Two slight earthquake shocks were felt at three-thirty this morning. Heavier shocks were felt at Augusta, Bangor and Brunswick. Reports from Thonaston say the shock was fifteen seconds in duration and was felt there at five this morning. The houses were shaken and dishes rattled. The shock was more severe in central Maine. The state geologist says the earthquake was caused by the slipping of rock on the side of a fissure, probably three miles below the surface.

WINNIPEG FEELS THE EFFECT OF CYCLONE

Four People Killed, Six Injured and Buildings Are Wrecked
in Suburbs

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE)

Winnipeg, July 15.—A cyclone swept through the city early this morning, killing four people and injuring six. A big building was blown down on two adjoining houses, crushing the inmates. A high brick wall of the four-story building on the corner of James and Crozier streets crashed down upon two adjoining houses. The collapsed building was recently gutted by fire. The dead are H. White, W. Steinhoff, and two sisters named Reilly.

Dr. Van Gessner, co-defendant with Congressman John Newton Williamson and United States Commissioner Biggs in the trial in Portland, Oregon, for subordination of perjury in connection with the land frauds, yesterday testified in his own defense, saying that he had loaned money to various entrepreneurs, but had made no contract with them to purchase their claims upon their going to patent.

"JAWN D." GUIDE OF ITALIAN BAND BOYS

Musicians Whom He Led in Concert
Last Week Are Guests of the Great Oil King.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Cleveland, Ohio, July 15.—John D. Rockefeller, who led an Italian boys' band in a concert here last Saturday, had the same band as his guests today, but instead of leading the music, the Standard Oil King guided the boys over his Forest Hill estate on a trip of inspection. The boys were served with refreshments and, of course, enjoyed the honor paid them as well as their trip.

LAWSON THINKS HE CUDGELED "SYSTEM"

Considers His Trip in the West a

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

Announcement was made at the navy department at Washington yesterday of the establishment of a school of application for the instruction of newly commissioned paymasters.

The Morgan & Hawley company, a wholesale jewelry concern of Dallas, Texas, recently forced into bankruptcy by creditors, yesterday filed schedules showing the assets to be $153,650.15 and the liabilities $99,341.96.

Suit against the Armour Packing company for $20,000,000 damages for injuries sustained by contracting charbon from handling meat of the defendants infected with the disease was filed yesterday in Galveston, Tex. The grand jury in Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday returned two bills of indictment against John W. Hill, former chief of the filtration bureau, charging him with forgery and the falsification of records. His prosecution is a result of Mayor Weaver's crusade.

Receiver Allen of the defunct Central National bank of Boston yesterday brought suit against the board of directors of the bank to secure a full accounting and to compel its members to pay to him the amount of the losses which led to the failure of the institution.

Arguments were submitted yesterday in court at Clayton on the motion for dissolution of the receivership of the People's United States bank of St. Louis, Mo., and the hearing was continued until today. Receiver Spencer submitted an inventory of the holdings of the bank, showing a total of $2,679,244.59. It was announced at the navy department in Washington yesterday that the battleship Oregon had won the trophy for the highest scores made by vessels of its class at the annual target practice, the Wisconsin being second. In the cruiser class the Raleigh is the trophy winner, and in the gunboat class the Frolic.

Meeting.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Portland, Ore., July 14.—The National Conference of Charities and Corrections is in session in Festival Hall, and no convention of the year has brought a larger number of distinguished persons to the exposition city. The sessions of the conference will be devoted to the discussions of organized charity and proper training of refractory youth in all of their various phases. Among those who will address the conference are Prof. Edward T. Devine, of the chair of Philanthropy of Columbia University; Robert W. De Forest, Homer Folks, and other well-known authorities on the subject of charities and corrections.

A DOZEN MILLIONS PAID IN TREASURY

Second Installment of Public Deposits Held in Depository
Banks Given Over Today.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Washington, July 15.—In accordance with the call of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw the second installment of the public deposits held by depository banks, was paid today. The call for this payment was originally made for July 1st, but the date was changed in order to separate the transfer of funds of the treasury from the heavy payments of dividends and interest which fell due on the first of July. The amount paid to the treasury by the banks is about $12,000,000.

STATE NOTES

Ralph Perkinson, unmarried, aged 20 years, a fireman on a way-freight on the Wisconsin Valley railroad, was drowned at New Lisbon while bathing. He lived at Vansau, and was the sole support of a widowed mother.

Supt. Philip A. Kolb of Prairie du Chien has been elected superintendent of the Oconomowoc schools for the coming year in place of William Kittle, who resigned recently to become secretary of the board of normal regents.

Eva, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiss of Fond du Lac, had a narrow escape from death while playing with parlor matches. The child's dress caught fire and the blaze would probably have inflicted serious burns had not neighbors heard her cries.

Six boys from Chicago and Milwaukee have been arrested at Corliss on a charge of "flipping" trains, and were sentenced to jail for five days each. Officers of the Milwaukee road have given orders to their detectives to arrest all boys and tramps caught getting on and off trains.

W. D. Stevens of Minneapolis, a fireman for the Northwestern Telephone company, was nearly electrocuted at Hudson by falling across electric light wires carrying 5,000 volts. He was suspended on the wires until one burned in two, and then fell forty feet. He is frightfully burned.

George H. Drake and Howard Applegate were appointed receivers of the closed Citizens' Bank of Yellow Springs, Ohio, yesterday. The bank probably will be reopened.

RAILROADS ARE NOT FORTUNATE

Judge Stevens Decides Against Them In The Noted Suit Brought In His Court.

THEY SOUGHT TO EVADE PAYMENT

Officials Knowingly and Willfully Omitted Portions Of Reports As To Their Gross Earnings
Made To State.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 15.—"Vindication!" This is the satisfied exclamation of the administration adherent upon the announcement of the decision of Judge E. Ray Stevens of the circuit, holding that the railroads must pay to the state the penalties provided by statute for the failure to make complete and accurate reports of gross earnings for the purpose of computation of their license fee taxes. If the higher courts sustain the circuit court, there will doubtless be good reason for this exultation, for the decision means that some $150,000 is held to be due to the state in penalties. Each penalty is $10,000 and each incomplete report is by the statute constituted a separate offense. Should the decision as to penalties hold, the state will also doubtless recover back taxes to the sum of perhaps $452,000.

A decision by Judge Stevens in favor of the state was by no means unexpected. Judge Stevens was the La Follette leader on the floor of the assembly of 1901 and was the author of the defeated La Follette primary election bill of that session. He was appointed circuit judge on the advancement of Judge R. C. Siebeck to the supreme bench. So close is the partisan connection between the governor and the circuit judge that the railroads attempted to have the trial before another judge. It is said that the friendship of the circuit judge for the governor may have influenced him in his decision that he may have overlooked the law enough to make a reversal in the supreme court probable, but in support of this suggestion no reference is yet made to the Stevens decision.

This litigation is a result of a special message sent by Governor La Follette to the legislature of 1903. These penalties are only a small amount of what the governor says he is determined the railroads will be compelled to pay to the state. On gross earnings withheld he says they still owe to the state 4 per cent upon the total amount of gross earnings, which will amount to some $450,000.

Holds Defense Inadequate.

"After reargument of the question," say Judge Stevens, "the court is still of the opinion that the act of the railroad commission in endorsing his approval on the report of the railroad, is an immaterial act and that such approval did not prevent the plaintiff from maintaining this action. It appears from the facts stipulated that the defendant knowingly and intentionally omitted a substantial portion of its gross earnings, relying on the advice of counsel. This advice is not an adequate defense."

Upon the trial of the railroad cases in which the decision was handed down, the facts were stipulated by the parties, the railroad companies admitting that they had knowingly and intentionally omitted a substantial portion of their gross earnings in their reports to the state, claiming, however, that such omissions were made upon advice of counsel that they were not properly included under the statute.

Approval Lacks Legality.

The railroads also claimed their reports made to the railroad commissioner and approved by him were conclusive as to the amount of their gross earnings for that year.

They also claimed that the license fees imposed by the statute were in conflict with the commerce clause of the federal constitution, if the statute authorized or intended that interstate earnings should be considered in determining the amount of the license fee.

BIG FIGHT ON DOPE ROLLS INAUGURATED

The Greatest Crusade Ever Started

tuted at Exposition City.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Portland, Ore., July 15.—The most extensive and uncompromising fight ever started against the cigarette habit will be inaugurated at the convention of the International Anti-Cigarette League which opened its convention here today with delegates present from all parts of the United States and from England and Canada. United States Senator Henry M. Teller is conspicuously associated with the reform which he declares to be "the most important and successful movement in this country." The president of the league is Hon. Chas. Bulkley Hubbell, of New York, organizer of the first American Anti-Cigarette League in the world. The vice-presidents are Rev. Frank Johnson, of London and Frank A. Buck of Toronto. It is hoped that the public interest created by the convention will have material effect in arousing public opinion against the cigarette.

NEW LAW REFERS TO TUBERCULOSIS

NOTICES TO BE POSTED WHERE PATIENTS DIE OF DISEASE.

SPECIAL CARE IS TAKEN

Penalties for Not Reporting the Disease Are Very Stringent—The Requirements.

Under chapter 192 of the laws of 1905 an act prescribing the duties of physicians and others relative to infectious diseases brings out some interesting facts relative to consumption that has perhaps not before been fully noted or understood. Sections one, two and three of the law merely refer to the treatment of contagious diseases relative to notification of the fact that the disease exists. The remaining sections deal entirely with tuberculosis and are reprinted so that their meaning may be made clear to everyone:

Section 4. It shall be the duty of every physician or person or owner, agent, manager, principal or superintendent of each and every public or private institution or dispensary, hotel, boarding or lodging house, in any such city, to report to the department of health, in writing, or to some proper and competent person, the name, age, sex, occupation and latest address of every person afflicted with tuberculosis, who is in their care, or who has come under their observation, within one week of such time.

It shall be the duty of every person sick with this disease, and of every person in attendance upon any one sick with this disease, and of the authorities of public or private institutions or dispensaries, to observe and enforce all the sanitary rules and regulations of such health department for preventing the spread of pulmonary tuberculosis.

Disinfect Premises. Section 5. In case of the vacation of any apartment or premises by death from tuberculosis, or by the removal therefrom of a person or persons sick with tuberculosis, it shall be the duty of the person or physician in charge, to notify the commissioner of health of such city, aforesaid, of said removal, within twenty-four (24) hours thereafter, and such apartments or premises so vacated shall not again be occupied until duly renovated and disinfected as hereinafter provided.

Section 6. In case of the vacation of any premises or apartments as set out in section five (5) hereof, the commissioner of health, or one of his health officers, shall immediately visit said premises, and shall order and direct that such premises or apartments and all infected articles therein be properly and suitably disinfected. In case there shall be no remaining occupants in such premises or apartments, and same shall be vacant, then the commissioner of health shall cause a notice in writing to be served upon the owner, or agent of the owner of such premises or apartments, under the direction of and in conformity with the regulations of the local department of health.

Section 7. In case any orders or directions of the commissioner of health requiring the disinfection of any articles, premises or apartments, as hereinbefore provided, shall not be complied within thirty-six (36) hours after such orders or directions shall be given, then it shall be the duty of the commissioner of health to cause a placard in words and form as follows, to be placed upon the door of the infected apartments, or premises to wit:

NOTICE. Tuberculosis is a communicable disease. These apartments have been occupied by a consumptive and may be infected. They must not be occupied until the order of the health commissioner directing their renovation and disinfection has been complied with.

This notice must not be removed under a penalty of law, except by the commissioner of health, or an authorized officer.

Section 8. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, and any person who, without written authority from the commissioner of health, shall remove, or caused to be removed any placards placed upon premises or apartments which are or have been occupied by persons sick with any of the diseases mentioned in section 1, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than (5) days nor more than ninety (90) days.

Section 9. The provisions of this act shall not be construed as a limitation upon the officers of the common council of any such city to pass such ordinances in aid of the officers of the commissioner of health as may tend to promote and secure the general health of the inhabitants of such city.

Section 10. All acts, or parts of acts, including the provisions of any special charter contravening the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Section 11. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Approved May 12, 1905. COPY.

THE REAL CAUSE.

The Ancient Scalp-Fever Theory Exploded.

At one time dandruff was attributed to the result of a feverish condition of the scalp, which threw off the dried cuticle in scales.

Professor Unna, Hamburg, Germany, noted authority on skin diseases, explodes this theory and says that dandruff is a germ disease.

This germ is really responsible for the dandruff and for so many bald heads. It can be cured if it is gone about in the right way. The right way, of course, and the only way, is to kill the germ.

Newbro's Herpicide does this, and permits the hair to grow luxuriantly, just as nature intended it should.

WILL IMPROVE ON NATURAL BEAUTY

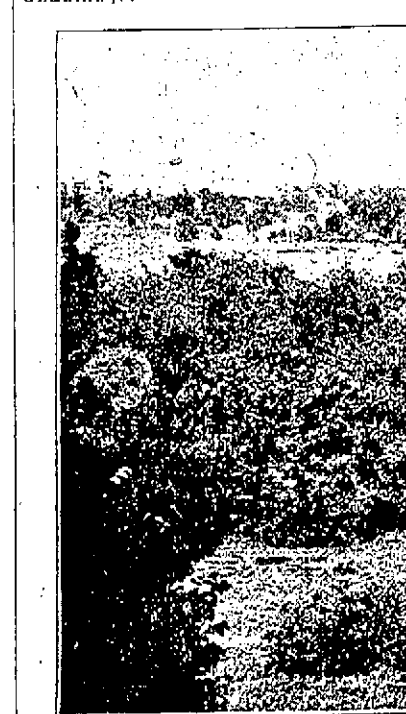

MOLE'S GROVE IS BEING MADE READY FOR CHAUTAUQUA.

WILL OPEN IN TWO WEEKS

Grounds Are to Be Lighted by Electricity—Mrs. Logan Opens the Entertainments.

Few people appreciate the wonders that Dame Nature has endowed Janesville with. The beauty of the placid Rock, the drooping trees, the luxuriant growth of vines and creeping plants, the hills, ravines and valleys all add to the natural beauty of the adjacent country. Perhaps one of the chosen spots of nature, accessible to the city by both street cars, driving and river has been less appreciated than others. Moles Park, lying at the extreme western end of the city street car line, on the banks of the Rock, with wooded heights and sloping meadows down to the waters edge.

A Busy Place. Soon this quiet spot will be a busy place. Workmen are already cleaning out the dense growth of underbrush, trimming up the trees and preparing for the tertiary city that will come with the session of the Janesville Chautauqua the last of the present month. This is the first year of this undertaking and even now the indications are for a large number of campers and an extensive city patronage. The cars run within a short walking distance of the grounds and a steamer landing is to be built that will accommodate others. There is a good roadway to the grounds and doubtless many will drive to the sessions, and leave their horses at convenient hitching rails. Others will come by foot as the distance from the city is not far.

Talk of Electricity. There is a talk of having the grounds lighted by electricity. Should this be done the view from the city, up the river, would be beautiful and the comfort of the campers would be greatly increased. The plan is to use large arc lights which would make the grounds as light as day. It would also do away with all danger of fire and the inconvenience of any other method of lighting. This would also make it pleasant for persons going to the grounds in the evening, as it would not mean a dark walk to the car lines after the entertainment was over.

Are Rushing Work. With but two weeks left there is much to do to the grounds to make them ready for the coming event. A well is being sunk which will guarantee good drinking water and a dining tent sufficiently large to accommodate all the campers and visitors is to be erected with a first class cuisine to satisfy the inner wants of man. The grounds are being fenced in and a dock is being built for the steamer. With the natural beauty of the park to work on an expert landscape gardener could make it a scene of beauty and willing hands are working with this in view. Its nearness to the city make it convenient to haul supplies to and fro and when the twenty-eighth comes all will be ready for the initial Chautauqua of Janesville.

Mrs. Logan Opens.

Mrs. John A. Logan, the widow of the famous Gen. John A. Logan, soldier and statesman, opens the session with an address on July 28. The Chautauqua management have invited the members of the W. H. Sargent Post of the G. A. R. to be present on this occasion and it is probable that Captain Norcross or some member of prominence of the post will introduce Mrs. Logan. She is a woman of charming personality and a wonderful speaker. A reception to the old soldiers will follow the address and Mrs. Logan will personally meet many men who marched and fought under her husband in the civil war.

SOME NEW FEATURES AT SUMMER SESSION

Lectures in French—On Southern Literature, and Lectures on School Management.

Professor Alcee Fortier, of New Orleans, has been lecturing in both French and English at the state university, where the summer session is now being held. In his French lectures he has been creating lyric poetry in French and in particular the work of Lamartine. As an introduction to the work of Lamartine Professor Fortier discussed at some length Rousseau, Madame De Staël, and Chateaubriand. As the causes of the great literary renaissance of the beginning of the 19th century he gives the appreciation of nature, the study of foreign literatures, the revival of the christian spirit and the interest in the middle ages. His lectures are illuminated by anecdotes and flashes of French wit, and his audiences have been increasing with each lecture. Next week he lectures on Victor Hugo. In his English lectures on Contemporary France, Professor Fortier began with an account of the ancient regime, and explained carefully its customs and institutions. He gave his opinion of the various monarchs who have ruled in France since 1791, and entered into many details concerning the political institutions and customs, especially of the period from 1848 to 1870. His lectures are constantly illustrated by anecdotes of personal experience and by descriptions of Paris and the provinces.

Professor Fortier's lectures on Southern Literature have been greatly appreciated. Possibly the most interesting of the lectures thus far delivered is the Tragedy of the Life of Edgar Allan Poe. His career as a student in the University of Virginia was delineated, his enlistment as a private soldier in the United States army, and his entering West Point, with the routine of which he was so dissatisfied as to deliberately bring about his own dismissal.

Then followed the second act of "Poverty and Poor Prospects" a year or two in which he acquired the habit of drink to such an extent as to render him unfit for sustained labor.

LOOKING TOWARDS CAR LINE

This became apparent in the third act of his life, with "Prosperity promised but sacrificed." In this era he was made editor of the old "Southern Literary Messenger," and moved to Richmond with his young wife. Here a competency was assured him, but he was overpowered by his habit of drink and became so irregular in his duties as to lose his position. This seems to have been the crisis of his life. In the fourth act, which might be entitled, "A decade of falling fortunes," he was pursuing mainly the will-o-the-wisp of an absolutely independent magazine. His writings were readily accepted, but he was unsuccessful in procuring large pay for his productions. The fifth act of this pathetic drama is one of "Accumulating Catastrophes." In 1847 his wife died under the most distressing surroundings of neglect and poverty. The next year, Poe himself seems to have been unbalanced by the terrible shock through which he had passed. There was a promise of prosperity in the early months of 1849, when he was again promised a permanent position on the staff of an important daily paper. Blinded by the prospect of making an honorable living amid the circle of his attached friends, he formed a fast resolution to eschew absolutely all intoxicants. With a promise of a speedy return he set out for the North to put his affairs in order. The next that was heard of him was from a note written to Dr. Snodgrass, of Baltimore, stating that a gentleman who gave his name as "Edgar A. Poe" was in great distress and needed immediate assistance. Dr. Snodgrass had Poe taken to Washington Hospital, where he died on the 7th of October, 1849.

Superintendent C. G. Pearce, of Milwaukee, begins his lectures next week. His lectures are on school management and are intended to be intensely practical for the benefit of the large number of teachers and normal students who are in attendance at the session.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the number of students from Milwaukee is greater than ever before. Of the Milwaukee normal graduates and students over fifty are in attendance.

MILITARY COMPANY MASCOT SEES TOO MUCH OF CITY

Came Downtown Between Train Times and Is Left—Cared for by Police.

The eight-year-old lad whom Company H of Menomonee took along with them to Camp Douglas as a mascot last week spent last night in Janesville much against his wish. The company passed through Janesville last evening on their return trip and when the train halted here for a few minutes the lad came downtown to see the sights, as did the other members of the company. But he didn't figure right on the time or the train's departure and when he arrived again at the depot the train and his friends were gone. Then he seated himself and commenced to cry and great tears stood in his eyes when Officer Panning came upon the scene. Marshal Constable had received a telegram from the captain of the company, dated Brotherhood, asking that the boy be provided for. He was furnished with hotel accommodations over night and left this morning, thanking the police department for the kindnesses extended to him.

RUSSIAN COSSACKS IN MUTINY. Revolt at Bad Food and Muscovite Troops Subdue Them.

Warsaw, July 15.—At the cotton mill center of Zgierz, near Lodz, a number of Cossacks declined to eat what they considered bad food and sent a delegate to the captain. The captain drew a revolver and shot him dead. Troops were summoned and the Cossacks were seized and imprisoned in the fortress of Wargosz.

DOES COMPANY MEAN TO REACH THIS CITY?

New Interurban Company Files Articles of Incorporation in Madison.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state at Madison by the Madison and Suburban Traction Company. The articles were drawn by the firm of Miller, Noyes & Miller of Milwaukee, agents for the Wisconsin Trust company. It is well financed. The capital stock is $100,000 and the incorporators are: Walter D. Hickman, John A. McCormick and A. W. Fairchild. In the attorney general's office they said it was given extraordinary powers of construction. It is thought that its intent is to extend an interurban line from Madison to Janesville. The document empowers the company to construct electric railways in Madison, in Dane county and elsewhere in the state of Wisconsin.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, July 15, 1865.—The strike among railroad employees at Buffalo is likely to result in the discomfiture of the disaffected, the company having determined to go to their bottom dollar in squelching the strikers.

Local Conundrum.—Why was Captain Gage Burgess at our Fourth of July celebration, like the copperhead Congressman from the Free State? Because he was "miss"—representing the states.

President Lincoln and His Cabinet.—This celebrated painting of President Lincoln and his Cabinet deliberating over the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, which has attracted so much attention throughout the country, is to be exhibited here next week. Very few of our citizens, we apprehend, will fail to see it.

Painful Accident.—We regret to learn—as we did only today—that Mr. C. W. Storey, the groceryman on Milwaukee street, met with a painful accident on Tuesday evening last, while returning with his wife from commencement exercises in Elletts. The livery horse he was driving started to run while near Mr. Ira Milmore's residence, and before it reached the bottom of the hill, the carriage overturned, throwing the occupants violently out. Some of the bones of the right foot of Mr. S. were broken, but fortunately Mrs. S. escaped without injury. The carriage was badly broken.

Janesville, July 14, 1865. Editors Gazette: I most earnestly implore you in behalf of many sufferers, to admit me through your columns to call the attention of the proper authorities, if there be any, to the large body of stagnant water on Main street, two streets below Court street. It produces quite an unpleasant odor, and not at all desirable in the inhabitants in that neighborhood, and we have no doubt but that it is allowed to remain their long in this oppressively warm weather it will be the cause of considerable sickness. We therefore appeal to the proper authorities to have it drained off at once.

The Negroes in Tennessee.—A correspondent from West Tennessee says that the negroes there are worse off than before the war, and that the black that claims his freedom is giving the signal for his murder. Not a day passes but one or more freedmen are thus disposed of by the armed band of marauders, who are harbored in the neighborhood for that purpose. The negroes, as a class, are disposed to work; but the prejudice is so strong against them, that it is almost impossible to get remuneration. How completely such conduct refutes the old slaveholders lie that the people of the South so loved the negroes.

WHEAT LETTER FROM NEW YORK MARKETS

Russian War Scare and Reports of Rain in Northwest Worried the Growers.

Wheat.—For a time during the past week the Russian situation took on a very serious look owing to the tactics of the rebel ship in the Black Sea, and the declaration by her crew that it was rebellion and not piracy that made it appear that among the remaining officers was a man of brains who might make something of the general agitation against the government and succeed in heading a general uprising all over the empire. In addition to this trouble in one of the most important producing countries, there were rains in the Northwest, accompanied by further reports of rust, receipts ran rather smaller, owing to rains in the Southwest, and shorts were rendered uneasy for fear of a bullish government crop report tomorrow. But later the Russian situation became less threatening, the weather cleared up and the altered technical condition of the market caused a considerable break, with prices finishing the week at a decline of about 1 1/2 to 2 cents, the greatest loss being on July.

The outlook still appears to be for a large crop, but there is plenty of time for further damage in the Northwest and it will be some few days yet before arrivals from the new crop of winter wheat will be heavy enough to exert any material pressure on the market. For the immediate future, therefore, we should be inclined to buy for a run on all sharp breaks, giving a preference for the September option, while on very sharp bulges we would sell December, which at the close on Saturday was commanding a premium of about 1/2 cent over September, while on the previous week September sold slightly over the winter month.

Corn.—Corn has been generally firm on smaller receipts, somewhat excessive rains in central states, and a fair demand from abroad on the softer spots. For the week prices are 1 to 1 1/2 cents net higher, with July corn in Chicago selling around 57 1/2 and September at 56 1/2. These seem very high prices for corn when the new crop outlook is not unfavorable in the main, and when this outlook follows as largely a crop as that of last season, prices have been maintained no doubt by the large demand made on this country from abroad, but it also seems that the value of corn is increasing in keeping with the advances in the markets for all the commodities, which is so largely the result of the expansion in the supply of gold. Naturally when the basis of wealth increases in volume, it will become cheaper just as any other commodity cheapens if it becomes more plentiful, and the only way that cheaper gold can make itself felt is in an increased price for that which gold purchases. At the same time we feel that corn is plenty high enough at present prices, and would sell September on bulges. Oats have joined in the general advances, but have been more irregular and for the week are 1/2 cent higher on July to 1/2 cent lower on September. We would sell oats on all sharp bulges.

Provisions.—Provisions have been somewhat irregular. Supplies are said to be very heavy, particularly those in private warehouses, but packers seem to be supporting the market during periods of weakness, and each decline is followed by quite prompt recoveries. Purchases on reaction would seem the wisest course.

ENGINEERS ARE IN DEMAND EVERYWHERE

Japan, Panama, Mexico and the United States All Are Fields for University Graduates.

All the one hundred and four members of the graduating class of the College of Engineering of the University of Wisconsin have secured positions on various engineering enterprises all over the United States, as well as in Panama, Mexico, and Japan. A number who completed their work before the end of the year left early in the spring to begin their practical work in engineering and returned at the commencement to receive their degrees. The demand for state university graduates in engineering has been greater this year than ever before, and Dean Turney of the College of Engineering has received requests from large engineering concerns for university graduates to which he has been unable to make any recommendations as all the available graduates had already secured positions. Many of the students as a result have had a choice of three or four good places. The authorities of the College of Engineering also received a large number of requests from other institutions for instructors in engineering, but as not many of the graduates care to take up teaching because of the small remuneration compared with that to be obtained in commercial positions, only a few have taken up that work.

Of the electrical engineers a number entered the employ of the largest electrical companies, such as the General Electric Co., the Chicago Edison Co., the Western Electric Co., and the Westinghouse Co. Several of the civil and mechanical engineers are employed in the new Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel in New York, and others are engaged in railroad work in all parts of the country. United States irrigation work in the west and various mining enterprises furnished positions for those interested in those fields. Four graduates have gone to Panama to accept places on the canal work; one is in Mexico, in the maintenance of way department of the Mexican National Railway, and one becomes instructor in engineering in the College of Japan.

Hooligan's Funny Circus Coming.

There's something real good coming to Myers Grand Thursday, July 20. The jolliest, funniest, most laughable comedy ever written, and that is the people's favorite, "Hooligan's Troubles." It's funnier than a circus. That's what other people say who have seen it, because it's full of happy moments. Something doing all the time from rise of curtain to finish. The best comedians, the greatest dancers, the sweetest singers, newest novelties, up-to-date specialists can be seen in "Hooligan's Troubles," clean, clever, refined. You will laugh, roar, scream and grow fat. Two and a half hours of solid fun and many pleasing surprises. Bring the children; fetch grandma and grandpa. It will make them healthy and happy and laugh for weeks after they have seen "Hooligan's Troubles." If you have cares; if you have the blues; if your business goes wrong, "Hooligan's Troubles" will force you to forget troubles. The crazy scarecrow and comical doukey throw an audience into fits of laughter. When you see it once you will like it so well you will want to see it over again. You can laugh till you cry. You can cry till you will feel foolish about it. "Hooligan" has always been popular with the boys and girls—with everybody, and a favorite with the newspapers. It has made millions laugh. Considerable enquiries have been made asking when tickets go on sale. Watch out for Hooligan. He steals everything in sight.

THREE Y. M. C. A. CAMPING PARTIES

The Seniors, Intermediates and Juniors Will All Enjoy Outings at Delavan This Year.

This summer it is expected three camping parties will be sent to Delavan Lake by the Janesville Young Men's Christian Association. Last year there were two, one composed of Intermediates, the other of Juniors, but this year there is a disposition on the part of many Seniors to camp and a number of them will enjoy an outing of ten days at Delavan. Already nine have signed their names to take advantage of the proposition and by a week from Monday, when the party leaves, it is thought this number will have been greatly augmented. Those who, it is known thus far, are planning to go are Rexford Brown, Arthur Clark, William F. Heise, Rolfe Dobson, Harold H. Green, J. C. Kline, J. A. Ward, Will Nott and Frank Chase. The camp will come to a close August 2.

The Intermediate camp it is not yet positive will be held. A company of the Intermediate department spent ten days at the lake last year but many of them who went in that party will go with the Seniors this year. The date for the camp will be from August 2 to August 12, which is during the Delavan Assembly.

The Junior camp will probably be the largest according to the number that will go. This outing is one of the great features of the year's program and is participated in by nearly every member of the department. The boys will go to camp August 15 and will return on the twenty-fifth.

Painless, Natural Childbirth.

Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself; her duty to her unborn babe is to use every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time after his arrival, so let us make his coming easy. His health in after life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming; would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown-up children; a famous surgeon in Vienna is devoting his life-work to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth; do not allow your child to become a cripple.

Mother's Friend

Is a liniment which will forestall any possibility of accident at birth; that is, it relaxes all the abdominal muscles and tissues, and permits of an easy access to the child. It eases the mother's pain, and so assists nature that when baby comes he starts out in life with a constitution well able to fight life's battles, and to bloom into strong pure manhood that is the comfort and delight of every true mother's heart. If a merchant should advertise, however modestly, some article which he would prefer not to sell at the price he would never again wonder whether, after all, his advertisements were read.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The most general topic of conversation these days or any other for that matter, is the weather. It requires less brain equipment than any other topic, and the man with a very limited knowledge of books and current events can discuss and denounce the weather fluently and an occasional mixture of profanity.

The weather is always a safe topic to discuss, because the argument is all on one side, and nothing is more satisfactory than the last word in an argument. It requires no courage and no resources. The only ability displayed is the ability to wag the tongue.

There are plenty of people who denounce the weather and the power which regulates and controls it, who would run from their shadow on a moonlight night, and who would be as dumb as an oyster if an answering voice came back from these unseen forces.

It was claimed last year that the corn crop of Wisconsin would be a total failure and when the first of September found the corn less than half matured, everybody knew that even a crop of nubbins was out of the question.

The weather was responsible for these conditions, and there were plenty of people who were confident that under their management, corn would have had a chance.

But the weather jugged along, as it has been jogging for many centuries, redeeming the promise of seed time and harvest with old time regularity. This year the country is flooded with water, the hay crop ruined, and the harvest threatened. Men go out and look at the sky and then go back to curse the weather. Even the fisherman finds it too wet to fish, and so there is complaint all along the line.

Down in the southern states is a vast territory covered with pine forests, known as the turpentine district, where an army of men find employment in extracting and collecting the sap of the trees for commercial purposes.

A slow process of girdling gradually takes the life of the tree and in ten years the forest is destroyed. Talk to the men who are making money out of this destructive industry, and they will tell you that the capital invested is liberally rewarded.

Ask them what the next generation will find to do for a living in the barren territory and, with a shrug of the shoulders, they reply that they are not interested so far ahead.

This doctrine of selfishness is not confined to the turpentine district of the south, but is largely universal, and is never more pronounced than when the weather is under discussion.

The farmer wants a calendar adapted to his locality. If he could have the weather made to suit him he would have it rain nights and Sundays, with a period of day weather for haying and harvest.

His neighbor across the way would make a few changes and if every man was delegated with power to be a weather maker, a cyclone at least twice a month would be necessary to clear the atmosphere.

The automobile tourist wouldn't have any rain from May till November, if he could prevent it, and the hotel man at the summer resort would like to have a uniform temperature of 90 through July and August, with perpetual sunshine thrown in.

The expression, "We never had such weather before," is very common and people of an investigating turn of mind are trying to account for the excessive moisture of the past three years.

The theory is advanced that the use of electricity, with the network of wires necessary to the service, attract the lightning and create the storm. If there is any satisfaction to be derived from this, and various other theories, the people who exploit them are entitled to it, but the fact remains that sunshine and rain, heat and cold have appeared with old time regularity ever since the clock of time was wound up, and there is no season of any year which has not been duplicated many times.

The great canopy which covers all space is a realm where human knowledge is extremely limited. The sweep of the telescope may bring to the eye the faintest glimpses of this upper kingdom, but the God who created and controls is still in command and humanity may not interfere.

It requires more than human skill to water a planet and cause it to bud and blossom like the rose, and the wind that bloweth where it listeth, breathing health and destroying pestilence is controlled by a hand whose power is supreme.

Not many years ago some wise men decided that the mechanism of the old world was out of order. Arid spots appeared on the earth's surface, or rather men appeared in arid sections, where people were never expected to gain a livelihood as tillers of the soil.

They said the Creator had made a mistake and forgotten to water this desolate country, and after prolonged fasting and prayer they decided to take matters into their own hands, and so a company of rain makers was organized and the government was induced to lend a hand.

Proceedings were watched with a good deal of interest, but the deserts are still arid, except where redeemed by irrigation.

The best assistance which humanity can render to an All Wise Creator is to faithfully work out a destiny in the field occupied.

The movements of planets the song of the wind and the bluster of the storm belong to the realm of limitation where the hand of humanity may not interfere, but the every day work of life, be it ever so humble, is of supreme importance and it will never be done except by human hands and brain.

The weather is all right every day of the year and some one recently said of it:

You may find all the fault with the weather you will,

But the weather will keep up its vagaries still;

And so what's the use for to fume and to sigh

Let the weather alone and get busy, say I.

And you will be happy as birds by and by,

And that's no lie.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee News: Governor La Follette's conception of Hamlet may hold high place in literary circles, but what the Kansas farmers want to know is what he thinks of Rockefeller.

Menasha Record: A hen down at Baraboo scratched $1,000 out of the earth. Which proves that a hen is sometimes luckier than the individual members of another form of bipeds.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: A commission has reported that New York can save $1,500,000 a year by owning her own lighting plant. The main objection to the plan is that the politicians do not want the city to save that much.

Appleton Post: The announcement is made that "an automobile for the masses" has been perfected. However, the masses are not thus likely to become greatly excited when they learn in the same connection that the price of the machine designed for their use is to be $400.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: With the next presidential election three years ahead, the columns of gossip concerning rival candidates for the republican nomination which are telegraphed from Washington by special correspondents afford a reminder that the hot weather silly season is in full blast.

Racine Journal: Governor La Follette's discourse on Hamlet failed to make an impression upon the trusting Kansas. The state executive's scholarly effort was better adapted to a Chautauqua gathering than would have been a savage attack upon the Standard Oil and other combines thought to be equally as iniquitous by the westerners, but the latter want to see their alleged oppressors ripped up the back in no uncertain words, and a dissertation upon Shakespeare's great character tell, in the main, upon unwilling ears.

Neenah Times: In Iowa a bitter contest has sprung up over the plan to establish a single board of control to manage the state schools. A similar bill was formulated at Madison last winter, a bill to place every public school in Wisconsin, in cities of the second, third and fourth class, under a state board, to be appointed by the governor, and which board was to have full and absolute control of the public schools. The bill was not presented, but kept for the next session, as it was deemed too clear and strong a piece of centralization of power coming so soon after the passage of the last school law on this same line.

The average number of days worked per week by French miners employed underground during March was 5.84, as compared with 5.95 in the previous month, and with 5.88 in March, 1904.

The average number of laborers employed daily at all the docks and principal wharves in London, Eng., during the five weeks ended April 29, was 12,159, a decrease of 15 per cent on the average for March, and of 5.9 per cent on that for April, 1904.

Of the total membership of German trade unions reporting in March last, 12,313, or 1.6 per cent, were unemployed on the last day of the month, as compared with 2.6 per cent at the end of December, and 1.9 per cent a year ago.

CAVALRY COMPANY DRILL REGULARLY

Three Times a Week They Meet for Marching Work—Have a Civil Organization.

At the last meeting of the Bower City Rough Riders a civil organization was formed and it was decided not to elect the non-commissioned officers, empowering the captain to appoint these. The society being composed largely of young men inexperienced in military tactics it was considered for the best interests of the company that the officers who had seen service were better able to recognize good material for the non-commissioned honors than the company as a whole was. The plan of choosing sergeants and corporals was satisfactory to the organization at large and so a company of rain makers was organized and the government was induced to lend a hand.

As yet no other appointments have been made. The officers of the civil organization which meets each Tuesday night in the Grand Army of the Republic hall, are: President, George Buchholz, and secretary, John Shearer.

The company, which is by no means full as yet, would be if all the applications for enrollment now on hand were accepted, is drilling regularly. The hall over the Eddington blacksmith shop on North First street has been secured for this part of the work and on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings of every week the members gather for marching practice and other drill work which can be done without arms. Each member who has thus far come into the organization will be able to provide himself with a horse for dress occasions and parade and if arrangements with the state have been completed at the Adjutant General's office the company will be mustered in and furnished with their equipment, and six horses for practicing purposes.

NEW METHOD GIVEN OF PRESERVING EGGS

Answer to a Hen Grower as to Packing Eggs and Keeping Them Fresh.

To the Editor: Can you explain how the packers are able to preserve eggs for any length of time?

"CHICKEN RAISER."

The most simple method of packing eggs is contained in the following recipe, which is used by an experienced packer. He claims that "eggs packed in August will be as fresh the next April as they were when laid." Buy of your grocer or druggist a few pounds of paraffin, which melt in a kettle over the stove slowly until it is all perfectly melted, but do not have it hotter than necessary to keep it thin like water. Put the eggs into a wire spoon, a few at a time, so that they do not touch each other. Dip them quickly, but thoroughly, into the melted paraffin, letting them get thoroughly wet in it, but not hot enough to cook them any. Raise the wire spoon or basket over the kettle and let all drain off that will run from them. Set them on a table or board for the paraffin to harden, which it will do in fifteen minutes, sealing all the pores of the eggs perfectly air tight, so that they will keep for months in a cool, dry place. They keep the best packed in salt or put in egg cases on a dry cellar shelf. If they do not keep it is because the paraffin did not cover them well, so practice to leave no spots on them uncovered by it. If they are very long, turn the box or basket in which they are kept once a week to prevent yolks from settling to one side.

BARS POSTAL CARDS

Can No Longer Be Used to Describe Criminals.

Owing to a recent decision of a judge of a United States court, police departments are no longer allowed to send out postal cards with the pictures and descriptions of crooks in an effort to locate criminals and law-breakers. The description, if it is sent, will have to be sent in some other form. For years this has been a favorite method with the police departments, and whenever a criminal whose description was known was wanted the country has been flooded with postal cards bearing the same. This will now have to be discontinued, however, and if the police chiefs want to locate criminals they will have to send out the descriptions in some other way than on postal cards.

IMMENSE SHIPMENT OF TOBACCO MADE

S. B. Heddies Sends Eight Cars to Eastern Parties—Market is Again Busy.

After a several weeks' reign of quietude on the leaf markets of southern Wisconsin a new activity sprang up during the last several days and to head the record of business is the shipment of S. B. Heddies of eight cars of 1901 upper grades which go to the east. Other warehouse men of Janesville have been busier than usual, and the report of sales and shipments is as follows: S. B. Heddies sold 800 cases consisting of various seasons; Mr. F. Green shipped a car of old to the east. 100 girls are now employed at this place stemming, at which occupation they will be kept for the balance of the summer. Fisher and Fisher disposed of 97 boxes of 1903 to eastern parties; S. B. Heddies sold 500s of 1903 and Geo. H. Rummell 1500s of 1903; S. B. Heddies shipped Tuesday 8 cars of 1901 upper grades to an eastern place. A. Friedberg of Friedberg Bros., Pittsburg, Pa., was in this market Monday, looking for low grades.

Warm Weather is Liked
The last two days of very warm, dry weather were needed by the leaf-growers for cultivation. The continued rains helped the crop along and put it on a par with the 1896 banner production but weeds also grew rankly and the removal of these was necessary.

Growing Thirty-six Acres
Among the growers of Rock county S. B. Heddies of this city is the most expensive, having thirty-six acres under cultivation and the crop is showing a remarkable stand. Torge Thompson of Dane county is undoubtedly the largest grower in the state. This year on his different farms he has set about 60, acres.

Real Meaning of "Blindfold."
If we were asked to give the derivation of the word "blindfold," as a matter of course we should respond that it comes from making a person blind by folding a cloth over the eyes. But our answer would not be correct. The original word was blindfolded, that is, struck blind, and how it came to so change both its form and its significance is a puzzle.—The Sunday Magazine.

Bishop on Sunday Relaxation.
Discussing Sunday games, the bishop of Ipswich asks: "Would any one say his prayers less well because he has made a nice drive to the office?" The London Globe, however, remarks that that is hardly the point. It is the moral welfare of the man who makes a bad play that has to be looked after.

OSTEOPATHIC NOTES

That You May Know of Osteopathy and What it Is Doing For Humanity.

(Edited by Dr. Hugh Ross Bell of Bell & Settle, Osteopaths, 405 Jackson Block.)

Osteopaths do not use drugs.
Osteopaths do not use hypnotism.
Osteopaths do not practice magnetism.

Osteopaths do not rub, slap or use massage.
Osteopaths do not use a battery or electric belt.

Osteopathy is a protest against blind experimentation.
Drugs mask the symptoms; Osteopathy cures the disease.

Dull brains and heavy hearts grow bright and light under Osteopathy.

Get your spine right and it's dollars to doughnuts you will be all right.

Osteopathy's slogan is "adjustment," the perfectly adjusted body is a well body.

Why clog your system with deadly drugs when Osteopathy offers you a safer, surer road to health?

Osteopaths cure by taking the pressure off the pinched nerves and blood vessels, which is the real cause of your trouble.

There are over one hundred chronic conditions in which the record of Osteopathic cures shows a percentage of ninety in one hundred.

The long list of nervous diseases, almost hopeless and incurable under drug therapy, are, most of them, promptly relieved by Osteopathy.

A mechanical maladjustment is at the bottom of ninety per cent of all chronic diseases; Osteopathy alone can correct these faulty adjustments.

We do not care whether you believe in our way or not; it is not necessary to results. Children a few weeks old are treated quite as successfully as older persons.

Never mind the theories; results are what talk loudest. We get them. Osteopathy has the endorsement of the leading men and women of the country over: the reading, thinking, class.

The fact that Osteopathy is eminently successful with such a large percentage of cases upon which all other systems have failed is a strong argument that it must be the best system to employ in any diseased condition.

The Beloit and Rockford Councils are going there and it will be a big day. Last year Beloit and Freeport joined with Rockford and the celebration was a grand success.

SILVER BASS AGAIN
INHABIT THE RIVER

Return to the Rock After Absence of Twenty Years—Blue Gills Also Found Once More.

Silver bass have returned to the Rock river. For almost twenty years these fish have been found only occasionally and have never been caught in large numbers. In the olden days they swarmed in the stream. No reason is assigned for their departure, because they were not shed out, and no one knows why they have returned. The fish commission has not been stocking the river with this kind of fish, so far as can be learned. The only explanation is that they have come down from the lakes. Men who have been at Lake Winnebago say that the bluegills swam in the lake this year; whereas in the two preceding years they were hardly to be found. This migration of the fish tribe is inexplicable to the ordinary fisherman, though the fish commission may have discovered the reason.

An Impromptu Vacation.
Percival Somers in his "Diary of a Country Gentleman" tells of an English farmer's wife who on her way home from market drew 200 from the bank and completely disappeared on the instant. She was thought to have been murdered for the money on the lonely roads, and for six months no more was heard of old Nancy. Then she suddenly walked into her old home and went about her work as usual. She had taken it into her head that after forty years of hard work she wanted a holiday, and accordingly this ancient rustic, who had never been more than a few miles from home, steeled herself triumphantly to the United States and took the said holiday among relatives whom she had never seen up to the moment of this belated appearance.

A Doubtful Compliment.
"My dear, I have a great compliment for you," said the Boston man to his New York niece, who was paying a month's visit and attending many serious entertainments.

"A compliment?" and the pretty eyebrows were raised incredulously.

"Yes," said her uncle cordially. "Professor Milder said he noticed you particularly at the reception Monday afternoon, and he thought you had a most intelligent face."

"There, aunt," said the frivolous young person, turning reproachful eyes on her relative. "I told you I looked like a perfect tramp in that brown dress, but you said I didn't. You see what he thought, don't you? He couldn't think of another thing to say."—Youth's Companion.

SHOOT HIMSELF IN HIS OWN HOSTELRY

Albany Hotel Proprietor Succeeds in Ending Life on His Second Attempt.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Albany, July 15.—S. E. Austin, proprietor of the Central Hotel here, succeeded in his own hostility at seven o'clock this morning, leaving no word or note concerning the cause for the deed. He employed a thirty-two calibre revolver in the action, shooting himself through the temple and dying instantly. This was his second attempt to end his life, having taken strychnine two weeks ago, but failing in his purpose. On this occasion successful treatment was administered to him by Dr. Halverson, one of the boarders at the hotel.

Wife and Daughter

Austin was forty years of age and leaves a wife and a daughter of eight years. The family came here from Beloit two years ago and have since then resided in the hotel. Some motive for the suicide might be found in the fact that last fall he was arrested on the charge of selling liquor in the village when the no-license law was in force and in fighting the case in court at Monroe lost some three hundred dollars and his standing at Albany.

ARE THE POLICE ON THE RIGHT TRAIL?

Have the Chicago Police Waked Up to the Silk Robberies at Last?

Dispatches from Chicago announce that the Chicago police are looking for a gang of silk thieves that have been operating in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. Janesville is mentioned as one of the cities visited. The Janesville robbery came too long ago to recover any of the goods. If the thieves reached Chicago with their plunder they have disposed of it long ago. The Chicago Journal is making a crusade upon the present police force and has published a list of ex-convicts who have been placed upon the city's payroll as officers of the law. With these men at work the silk thieves have small fear of ever being captured. Mr. Bailey can tell an interesting story of the attempt of Bort, Bailey & Co. to land the silk robbers of their store some years ago. It reads like a story of the underworld, only the difference is that it is true. Police and thieves are co-ming, dividing swag according to the profits made, is the subject. Poor old "Bloomington" is again used as the scapegoat for the crime. In his day "Bloomington" was as fine a gentleman of the night fingered act as any but even King Crook's do not live always. It was "Bloomington," however, who robbed the Beloit store of Bort, Bailey & Co. and hence the readiness of the papers to lay all crimes to him. Under the present police regime of Chicago a good, honest policeman has no chance. He must be a "dip" or he will not stand in line for promotion. If a band of silk thieves ever get caught it is safe to wager that they failed to give up strong enough or that so much outside pressure was brought to bear the police were afraid to do otherwise. The Chicago "Times" can dispose of anything that is saleable and the crooks know it and it is their Mecca.

START UNTANGLING CUCUMBER TROUBLE

Attorneys and Business Concerns in Minotaur's Maze Trying to Find the Blunderer.

Somebody mixed some cucumber seed and Attorney John Fisher and Charles Pierce of this city and several business concerns are endeavoring to find the culpable parties for a whole lot of trouble, involving the F. H. Sweet Pickling concern, Philip A. Marsh, a Chicago seed-dealer; Peter Hohenadel of Janesville and a Rockford, Illinois, seed merchant, who will probably haul into line several hundred seed growers throughout the country. Judge Honore in Chicago is this week hearing the suit brought by the F. H. Sweet Pickling company, asking damages to the sum of $15,000. The plaintiffs say that they bought some cucumber seed of the defendants, supposed to be Chicago Pickling, a high-class variety, but when farmers in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana harvested their crops from it the fruit was short, crooked and deformed. The seed was sold to them by the Sweet company on a guarantee and of course they all complained. Marsh says he bought the seed of Peter Hohenadel and Hohenadel alleges he sold it as he received it from Rockford dealers. As a result of the blunder on the part of someone on a misrepresentation at some stage of the interference of the seed the Sweet company claim to be losers to an extent of $12,000, having purchased twenty thousand bushels from the growers before discovering the error.

INVENTED THE TWO-PIECE BALL COVER

Man of Importance in the Baseball World is Sadly Overlooked Today.

Few "fans" who have tossed a ball at some time in their lives could tell who invented the cover. Old "fan" inhabitants will remember the day when the leather that incased the balls in use was cut in four pieces and roughly stitched. The present form was an idea of Ellis Drakes, and was adopted by the late Harry Wright and his brother George. The inventor of the two-piece cover was recently discovered in Providence, and as a result that patriarcal developed a greater part in baseball development than anyone ever knew, has told the interesting story of his invention. He says:

"I resided in Stoughton and was attending school at the time I invented the baseball cover in use today. My father was manufacturing boots at the time, and I had access to all the leather. I used to cover the balls we schooled in using in playing the old 'round ball' game, consisting of 'tucking out' by throwing the ball at or toward the batter while in transit from base to base, and he needed to be an athlete, contortionist and general inviolable to dodge those balls that were thrown straight from the shoulder.

"In covering the balls according to the old form I found that the corners would give out first, and quick at that, and when we threw a ball at an opponent we could not inflict a black and blue mark on him to emphasize the victory, for the wind would get into the ragged flaps of the broken corners and retard its flight.

"So one day in school, when the teacher was not looking, and those were rare intervals, for we had several pairs of sharp eyes located in unexpected spots about his head, I took a piece of brown paper and inside of five minutes I devised the present form of cover of baseballs.

"Had I known its value a fortune was mine, but still I had the rich reflection that it has afforded a pleasure to the world, for the game would be a tame affair without that desirable geometric form of cover."

SHOES FOR DEFORMED FEET

Janesville Has a Man of Skill in Custom Shoe-Making.

It may not be generally known that Janesville has one of the most skillful custom shoemakers in the state or this northwest for that matter. Reference is made to P. Weber, who has had twenty-six years' experience both in America and Europe and who has also had practical experience in many of the very best factories in the country. All this experience has especially fitted and qualified him to make a shoe for practically any kind of a foot no matter how deformed it may be. He has become widely known for his skill and he now has customers in many towns and cities outside of Janesville. Mr. Weber is an interesting man and after talking with him in regard to his business and the various kinds and qualities of leather one realizes that there is a great deal to learn in regard to this special line of industry.

The young fellow they had tried to "roll" gave his name and address and it is probable that several arrests will follow, as he recognized his assailants.

HERE IN INTERESTS OF "THE NORTHERN TUSKEGE"

Colored Divine From Springfield, Illinois, Will Speak at Churches Tomorrow.

Bearing letters of high recommendation from ex-Governor Yates of Illinois and other men of prominence and good reputation in Springfield, Rev. Wilton R. Boone, D. D., is here seeking aid for the Ambledexter institute for the negroes at Springfield, of which he is financial secretary. He will present his claims in various churches tomorrow. The school he represents has often been called "The Northern Tuskege" because it is doing as far as possible the same work among the northern colored folk as the southern Tuskege is in its district. As yet it is greatly hampered by the lack of funds, but armed with favorable comments on the school from influential sources, Rev. Boone is working to overcome this drawback.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

City Well Represented: A meeting was recently held in Hazel Green between the mine-owners and railroad officials to consider plans for the proposed western railway to Hazel Green. Among those present were Calver, Spensley, Hazel Green; Rich and Barrett, Galena; Mr. Bremermann; Dr. Phil. Fox, Madison; J. Stump; P. J. Mount, N. J. Russell, Janesville; M. G. Jarvis, Janesville; George Sutherland, Janesville; F. S. Avery and W. Kennedy, Plattville.

Not Engineer's Fault: City Engineer Kern feels that an injustice has been done him in the Kicker's column of Wednesday. An investigation of the conditions on South Main street show that there is an opening into the rain-sewer to carry off the surplus water, but that it had not been kept clean, hence the blocking up of the water in the recent storm.

No Commission Given: In the Clement vs. Sheppard case in Municipal court yesterday afternoon a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant, not allowing Henry F. Clement the fifty-dollar commission which he asked on the plea of being instrumental in selling a farm for Mr. Sheppard.

Coming From Milwaukee: Mrs. McCua, who resides at 52 Gold street, is expecting the arrival of her son, Thomas Fleming, from Milwaukee this afternoon. Mr. Fleming has been ill for some time and is coming to his mother's home in hopes of recuperating.

Word of Warning: A lady signing herself "Humanity" asks that the Gazette remember that the poor dumb friends of man, the horse and the dog, suffer from the heat as much as humans do and that they need water, fresh and pure water, just as much as do men and women. She asks that attention of owners of animals be called to this fact that they will not needlessly allow their dumb friends to suffer through thoughtlessness.

Straw Hats Fashionable: The stylish horses of Janesville are enjoying straw hats these hot days. Some are plain straw and some have fancy bindings, but with an old sponge inside them they make life worth living for the equine family.

Build a Platform: The Rockford, Beloit and Janesville Electric railroad have constructed a platform on the line at the range of the Badger Gun club near the Choate-Hollister furniture factory for the accommodation of the club members and their guests. A sidewalk from which to shoot will be built in the near future.

Old Settlers' Picnic: The second annual reunion of the Rock River Valley Old Settlers' Association will be held at Ho-No-Ne-Gah park, near Beloit, Wednesday, August 30, and all are expecting that the attendance will be larger than that of last year. It will be the rally of old timers and their families.

Deny the Story: The Beloit stockholders of the Beloit baseball team deny the story recently published in a Rockford paper that all the rest of the schedule of the Beloit team were to be played in Rockford.

River Floods Sewer: Owing to the height of Rock River due to rains the sewer at the end of First street has a deep backwater that extends into the main sewer and needs a good rain to wash the disagreeable odors out.

Excites Interest: Considerable interest is being excited over the Unique tournament that is to be held at the Sinnissippi golf links next Tuesday. Aside from this event there are mixed foursomes and a dance in the evening.

Another Sunday: Main and Milwaukee streets will be torn up for another Sunday, although not so badly as they have been for the past three weeks. The fact the Y is complete makes the traffic much easier and little inconvenience will be experienced.

Police Watch Parks: The police are frequently called to the city parks to drive out young boys who gather there, using foul and obscene language. They make several visits to these breathing places during the day and early evening and keep careful watch after nine that loiterers are not enjoying themselves in dark corners.

Cement Brick Machine: Mr. Jesse Graham of Janesville has recently purchased a cement brick machine for use in the manufacture of cement blocks. The Western Builder,

GOLD PEN CONCERN AGREES TO MOVE

Chicago Manufacturing Plant Will Be a Janesville Industry—Wants Moving Expenses.

Asking for two hundred and fifty dollars removal expenses, the C. D. Barrett Pen company of Chicago, manufacturers of gold pens, agreed at a special meeting of the Janesville Business Men's Association held in the office of Attorney A. M. Fisher last evening to move their plant from the Windy city to Janesville as soon as possible. The Barrett company has been seeking a location away from Chicago for some time, while the Janesville business men were endeavoring to bring the concern here and last evening when one of the stockholders, Mr. Allen, met the business men and discussed the proposition of removal with them, arrangements for the change were practically completed. The Barrett company has a capital stock of five thousand and upon commencing work here will employ eight skilled workmen, whom they will bring from Chicago. The concern at present has a lease on the old Ocean building which does not expire until next May, but Mr. Allen said that he would let the business men know within ten days whether or not they would be able to move immediately or be forced to wait until next spring. To raise the funds necessary a committee was appointed, consisting of H. H. Bliss, I. F. Wortendyke and A. M. Fisher.

MAKE BUSINESS EVEN IN THE DULL MONTHS

Lowell Department Store's Red Tag Sale the Largest Ever Held in Janesville.

B. M. Brown, manager of the Lowell Department store, appears to have caught the idea of making business for his firm during the dull summer months. Mr. Brown has advertised extensively in the newspapers a Red Tag sale, to last for thirty days, a clearing-out sale as it were, and the results are wonderful. The use of printers' ink had been more than repaid before the Lowell store had been open an hour. Every aisle, every counter, every available inch of space was filled with customers. They were there almost before the doors were open and the covers taken from the shelves. One woman walked in five miles last evening so as to be on hand early this morning. She said she might have had a horse to drive, but if she had she would have had to go back last night and so she walked so as to be on hand. Making business in the dull summer months is a problem to many merchants. Not so to Mr. Brown. His two full-page advertisements in the Gazette of his Red Tag sale did the business and his firm are now reaping the benefits of judicious advertising. As the small boy said, "It pays to advertise."

THE SILVER MOON.

A NEW FIRM

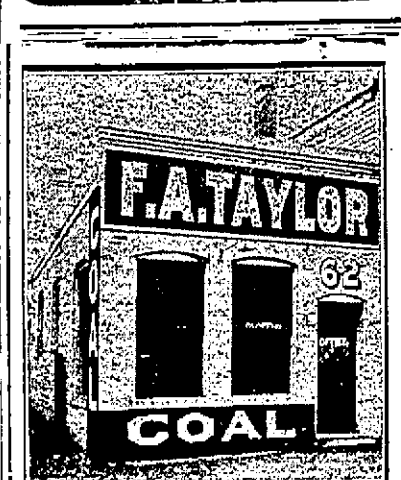

This place on North Main street has changed hands. Welch & Gokley is the name of the new firm. Mr. T. J. Welch came here from the town of Rock where he has been farming for many years and where he has many friends and acquaintances with whom he stands high. The junior member of the firm, Mr. J. E. Gokley, has for many years been a brakeman on the Chicago and North-Western railway and he has a very large acquaintance. The new firm propose to draw about them a first-class patronage and cater to an element that appreciate good liquors, the best cigars and courteous treatment. And while this is true all classes will be treated alike. A new electric sign has been ordered and will soon be installed in front of the place. With all these conditions the new firm have begun business under the most favorable auspices and their many friends are invited to call and see them when in Janesville.

Are You Connected?

If not, see to it that your order is placed at once. There are a great many houses to be connected with the new sewers, and we may not be able to do your work later. We have the time now.

The Closed Blue Room

Its Reopening Reveals a Tragic Chapter of a Romance.

A Story of Love, Conspiracy and Remorse and the Failure of an Attempt to Kill a Czar.

When sanctioning the preparations being made for his stay at Peterhof, on the Gulf of Finland, Nicholas II. ordered the opening for the first time for eleven years of a room which is, according to superstition, closely con-needed with the destiny of the Romanoff house, says a St. Petersburg correspondent.

In Peterhof palace, looking straight across the gray, tideless waters toward menacing Cronstadt, are three long French windows, which for more than a decade have been closed and shuttered. Behind them is a locked door, and between door and windows no foot has trodden for years. The room, which is known as the "sinia komnata," or "blue room," has been dedicated to death.

There ended with a pistol shot one of the most romantic of many romantic episodes involved in Russia's century old struggle for freedom.

Alexander III. was a despot, but he had that only solace of autocrats, the gift of inspiring affection. Among his favorites was Alexander Kiriloff, a member of a rich Novgorod family, lieutenant in the Preobrazhensky guards. Kiriloff was employed by the czar as a sort of undersecretary. According to some authorities, Alexander protected him owing to some remorse which he felt as the result of having when a young man countenanced a duel in which Kiriloff's father was killed.

Kiriloff loved the czar, but he did not love czarism, and the regiment in which he served is notorious in the annals of Russia's palace plots.

One day Kiriloff married secretly. The woman he married, a cousin of the famous Vera Sassulitch, was devoted to the cause of freedom. Love of wife completed what love of country had begun. Kiriloff became a nihilist and was chosen to remove the czar. Kiriloff protested. He was ready, he said, to revolt, but not to assassinate, and least of all to assassinate the master to whom he owed everything.

His wife, Varvara Kiriloff, left him and wrote vindictively that his "treason" had marked him out for a vengeance which she herself would not hesitate to execute. A few days later a son was born to her.

Discovering her hiding place on the St. Petersburg side of the Neva, Kiriloff hastened to her. She cursed him as a traitor. He implored pardon, offered to execute the nihilist orders and returned to Peterhof, where Alexander was expected on one of his brief visits—a murderer in intention.

A fortnight passed, but the nihilists got no news. A revolutionary courier gained access to Peterhof and demanded an interview with Kiriloff.

Next morning the door of the blue room, in which Kiriloff performed his secretarial work, was found to be locked. The door was burst open. Beside the hearth lay the appointed murderer, shot through the head.

On the table was a letter addressed to the czar. What was it? Alexander never said, but he ordered Kiriloff's body to be taken home to Novgorod and buried honorably, and from that day to this the blue room has remained closed.

PROPOSE A CAMP OF LATE WAR VETERANS

Spanish War Fighters in Other Places Organizing. Why Not in the Bower City?

There is a movement on foot in Monroe to organize a camp of the United Spanish War Veterans and there has been a murmur of taking similar action heard among a few of those who served in the conflict that reside here. In regard to the organization of a camp in Monroe the Evening Times of that place says: "United Spanish War Veterans. Camps are being formed all over the country and the question of forming an organization here has been agitated by members of Co. H who enlisted in the United States volunteer service during the war with Spain. It is expected that a camp will be organized in time for the national encampment that will be held in Milwaukee September 7th to 9th. Ten charter members are sufficient to start a camp. The Spanish war veterans have an auxiliary organization similar to the W. R. C., with membership limited to wives, daughters and sisters and mothers of the boys who enlisted in the army for the war with Spain, and the organization of the veterans is usually followed by the organization of the ladies' society."

REMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION

Given By Milwaukee's Mysterious Man

BEFORE A GREAT THROG

Makes Deaf Hear Plainly—Removes Monstrous Parasite From Human System.

Milwaukee, July 15.—(Special.)—Excitement over the marvelous cures of the Great Cooper continues unabated. One of the largest crowds that has yet gathered on the noted philanthropist visited him yesterday, and a remarkable demonstration of his power was given before the enraptured audience. Selecting an elderly gentleman, whom he noticed carrying an ear trumpet, Cooper motioned for him to come forward. He poured a few drops of a peculiar liquid into the man's ears and then rubbed them softly for a moment. Stopping quickly backward to a distance of sixty feet, he asked in an ordinary conversational tone, "Can you hear me?" A look of surprise and delight spread over the man's face, as he answered, "Yes, I hear you perfectly."

The gentleman stated that it was the first time he had heard the sound of a human voice without the use of a trumpet in twenty years. He left the crowd before his name could be learned. Many of those who called had come to thank Cooper for what he had done for them, they having previously written him a statement of their condition, and having followed his instructions had returned to tell him of their cure.

A man by the name of Wm. A. Pallierne exhibited a glass jar, containing a parasite fifty-five feet long, which he claimed had passed from his system after taking seven doses of Cooper's medicine. The parasite was alive and squirming, and Pallierne was anxious to know what it was. When Cooper informed him that the cause of his ill health had been removed, he was greatly relieved and was profuse in his thanks to the philanthropist.

Thousands of people viewed the parasite and expressed surprise, that such a thing could exist in the human system. Mr. Pallierne is a well known electrician, living at No. 190 Eighth street. In speaking of his experience, he said: "Ever since I was a child, I have been a victim of stomach trouble. I would have a bloating sensation and the least exertion would tire me. I could not stand on my feet any length of time without having severe pains in my back. My appetite was irregular, and I did not seem to get any strength or nourishment from my food. I had frequent attacks of dizziness, and dark spots appeared before my eyes. I was restless at night, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth. The doctors said my liver was in bad condition. I have taken every medicine I could hear of without receiving the least benefit."

"A week ago, I wrote to Mr. Cooper, telling him of my condition. He wrote me to get a certain kind of medicine from the drug store. I did so, and had only taken seven doses when this parasite fifty-five feet long passed from my system. I experienced almost immediate relief. My appetite has returned, I no longer feel faint and dizzy, the feeling of bloating has disappeared, and I am already stronger than I have been for years."

"I know of many other wonderful cures Mr. Cooper has made. I wanted to pay him for what he had done for me, but he would not accept one penny for his services. Just told me, if I knew any one who was ill, to tell them to write to him, care of the Plankinton Hotel."

Cooper receives an enormous daily mail. Letters are coming from every part of the state, asking for advice. The philanthropist reads every letter carefully, and replies to each one, advising the remedy which is applicable to each individual case.

While his remarkable cures are the chief topic of conversation, many stories are heard on the streets and in business places of his goodness to the poor. His gifts of food, money and clothing have relieved a great amount of distress and have greatly endeared him to the people.

He is beginning to show the great strain he has been under during the past two weeks, and it is understood that he will remain here only one more week.

DOUBLE FUNERAL SERVICES FOR VICTIMS OF TRAGEDY IN TOWN OF ORFORDVILLE.

Rev. Boag Delivers Sermon Over Mrs. Bertness and Rev. Kvale Over Odella Bertness.

Orfordville, July 14.—The double funeral of Mrs. Helmer Bertness and Odella Bertness who were found dead in the cellar last Tuesday was held from the Lutheran church Monday. A funeral sermon for Mrs. Bertness was preached by Rev. C. W. Boag pastor of the M. E. church at the home of Wesley Jones the father of the deceased. The text was Jno. 12:7 and the sermon was very appropriate. The services for Odella Bertness was conducted at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bertness by Rev. Kvale after which both processions met at the Lutheran church and Rev. Kvale preached a very appropriate sermon. There was the largest attendance ever known at a funeral in Orfordville. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Each minister took charge of the separate service at the cemetery. The whole community wanted to show their sympathy with the bereaved families.

Lightning Strikes a Woman. Last Tuesday evening P. F. Nohy's house was struck by lightning. The bolt came in at the south end and went out to the north but did not do very much damage to the house. Mrs. Nohy who was about to let the window down was badly shocked. The lightning struck her hand leaving a white streak on her arm and rendering her unconscious for some minutes. Dr. Kahley was called at once and says it will be about three weeks before she will entirely recover from the shock.

At the request of Lake Shore engineers Dr. D. A. Goodrich, the company's official oculist, is making trips in an engine cab in order to see block signals, semaphores and switches as an engineer sees them. Yesterday Dr. Goodrich went to Chicago in the engine hauling the Twentieth Century Limited, and went back to Elkhart on a night train. In making the annual test of vision the oculist has adhered to a scientific formula based on tests made indoors. The engineers complained to the management that the tests did not correspond fairly to actual conditions.

The Head of a Department of the U. S. GOVERNMENT SAYS ORRINE CURES WHISKEY HABIT

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE Washington, D. C., April 18, 1901.

The Orrine Co., Inc., Washington, D. C. Gentlemen—My attention was recently called to one of the employees of this office who had, through habit of drinking whiskey, become so inefficient as to be on the verge of dismissal. I was interested to know that in six weeks and only one application of Orrine he was able to do his work as well as any other man in the office. I am assured by those interested that Orrine "brought out the brain" for this excellent result. It is a pleasure to me to acknowledge the value of a remedy which brings results so beneficial.

F. W. PALMER, Public Printer.

Take Orrine quietly at home! To cure without patient's knowledge, buy Orrine No. 1; for voluntary treatment, buy Orrine No. 2. Price, $1.00 per box.

Cure effected or money refunded. Book on "Drunkards' Knowledge" free on request. Orrine guaranteed (actual) or receipt of $1.00 by The Orrine Co., Inc., Washington, D. C. Sold and recommended by SMITH'S PHARMACY, Next Old Postoffice, Janesville.

FISKE CHEAP FUEL FURNACE

SAVE FUEL

The LELAND A. FISKE CHEAP FUEL FURNACE does more than is claimed for it. I am prepared now to demonstrate the efficiency of my furnace and can explain why it will do on half the fuel better work than other furnaces; why one ton of cheap soft coal will do the work of a ton of hard coal in other furnaces. If you want a furnace, write me and I will show you why it is the best on earth. HOT AIR, WATER OR STEAM. Those who communicated with me last year and are still in the market—please try me again.

ROCKEFELLER TELLS OF CHRISTIAN WORK

Requirements of God Are Only According as He Has Given Each of Us Ability to Do.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 15.—The Christian faith demands that every man must do according to that which he hath, or according to that with which he has been blessed. John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world Friday night testified that he is attempting to live his life along the lines of this scriptural injunction. Remarking that he had been thrilled by the testimony of those who preceded him, Mr. Rockefeller told those at the weekly prayer meeting of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church what the building of a Christian character meant to him.

Mr. Rockefeller made no answer to recent criticism of his business methods.

The special topic of the meeting was "Character Building." A number of persons had testified when Mr. Rockefeller arose.

"I have been greatly helped and inspired by the testimony offered here to-night," he said. "The way for all of us to Christian work is for each to do according as he hath."

"It may be a trivial thought, and perhaps I cannot express it as I desire, but I must tell you. In making out manifestations of Christian faith, we must do that which counts most. This may be only a simple word or a cordial handshake.

"The world is a rushing, pushing throng. Every one seems to be striving to get ahead. It is a sweetly, comforting thought that the requirements of God are only according as he has given us ability to do. It is a blessed encouragement that every one of us can have a part in this character building, not only for ourselves, but for the upbuilding of the church of God.

"How blessed, how godlike it all is. I thank you."

As Mr. Rockefeller sat down the worshippers joined in the strain of "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

My senses came back to me then. The sight of Obermuller, with those keen, quick eyes behind his glasses, his strong, square chin, and the whole pose of his head and body, that makes men want to hear what he has to say; the knowledge that that man was my friend, mine—Nancy Olden—lifted me out of the mud I'd sunk back in, and put my feet again on a level with his.

"Tom," I said, slowly. "Mr. Obermuller is a friend of mine. No—listen! What we've been talking about is settled. Don't bring it up again. It doesn't interest him and it can't change me. I'm going to ask Mr. Obermuller to help you without telling him just what the scrape is, and—and I'm going to be sure that he'll do it just because he—"

"Because you've shaken up with him, have you?" Tom shouted, savagely. "Because she's your—"

"Tom!" I cried. "Tom—oh, yes, now I remember. Obermuller got between us as he spoke. 'Your friend up—in the country that you want to see and couldn't. Not a very good-looking, your friend, Nancy. But—farming, I suppose, Mr. Tom?'—plays the deuce with one's looks. And another thing it does: it makes a man forget sometimes just how to behave in town. I'll be charmed, Mr. Tom, to oblige a friend of Miss Olden's; but I must insist that he does not talk like a—farmer."

He was quite close to Tom when he finished, and Tom was glaring up at him. And, Mag, I didn't know which one I was most afraid of. Don't you look at me that way, Mag Monahan, and don't you dare to guess anything!

"If you think," growled Tom, "that I'm going to let you get off with that girl, you're mighty—"

"Now, I've told you not to say that. The reason I'll do the thing she's going to ask of me—if it's what I think it is—is because this girl's a plucky little creature with a soul big enough to lift her out of the muck you probably helped her into. It's because she's got brains, talent and a heart. It's because—well, it's because I feel like it, and she deserves a friend."

"You don't know what she is. It was a snarl from Tom. 'You don't—'"

"Oh, yes, I do; you cur! I know what she was, too; and I even know what she will be; but that doesn't concern you."

"The hell it don't!" Obermuller turned his back on him. I was dumb and still. Tom Dorgan had struck me after all.

"What is it you want me to do, Nancy?" Obermuller asked.

"Get him away on a steamer—quick," I murmured—I couldn't look him in the face—"without asking why, or what his name is."

He turned to Tom. "Well?"

"I won't go—no without her. eh?"

"Because you're so fond of her, eh? So fond, your first thought on quitting the country was to come here to get her in trouble. If you've been 'trailed'—"

"Ah! You wouldn't like that, eh?" sneered Tom.

"Would you?"

"Well, I've had my share of it. And she ain't. Still—I— Just what would it be worth to you to have me out of the way?"

"Oh, Tom—Tom—" I cried.

But Obermuller got in front of me. "It would be worth exactly $175. I can't think I will amount to about that for cab-hire. I guess the cars aren't any too safe for you, or it might be less. It may amount to something more before I get you shipped before the mast on the first foreign-bound boat. But what's more important," he added, bringing his fist down with a mighty thump on the table, "you have just ten seconds to make up your mind. At the end of that time I'll ring for the police."

I went down to the boat to see it all, Mag, at seven this morning. No, not to say good-by to him. He didn't know I was there. It was to say good-by to my old Tommy; the one I loved. Truly I did love him, Mag, though he never cared for me. No, he didn't. Men don't pull down the women they love; I knew that now. When Tom Dorgan had ever cared for me he wouldn't have made a thief of me. If he'd cared, the last place on earth he'd have come to, when he knew the detectives would be on his track, would have been just the first place he'd made for. If he'd cared, he—

But it's done, Mag. It's all over. Cheap—that's what he is, this Tom Dorgan. Cheaply had a cheap bully, cheap-brained. Remember my wishing he'd have been a ventriloquist? Why, that man that tried to sell me to Obermuller hasn't sense enough to be a good scene-shifter. Oh—

The firm of Dorgan & Olden is dissolved, Mag. The retiring partner has gone into the theatrical business. As for Dorgan—the real one, poor fellow! jolly, handsome, big Tom Dorgan—he died. Yes, he died, Maggie, and was buried up there in the prison graveyard. A hard lot for a boy; but it's not the worst thing that can happen to him. He might become a man; such a man as that fellow that sailed away before the mast this morning.

CHAPTER X.
HERE I was seated in a box all alone—Miss Nancy Olden, by courtesy of the management, came to listen to the leading lady's song-sonnets, that I might add her to my collection of take-offs.

She's a fat leading lady, very fair and nearly 50, I guess. But she's got a rollicking, husky voice in her fat throat that's sung the dollars down deep into her pockets. They say she's founded them deeper still—in the plantations of apartment houses—and that now she's the richest lady-poly on the Row.

Do you know, Maggie darlin', what I was saying to myself there in the box, while I watched the stage and waited for Obermuller? He said he'd drop in later, perhaps.

"Nance," I said, "I kind of fancy that apartment sort of idea myself. They tell you, Nancy, that when you've got the artistic temperament, that that's all you'll ever have. But there's a chance—one in a hundred—for a body to get that temperament mixed with a business instinct. It doesn't often happen. But when it does the result is—dollars. It may be. Nance'll shrewdly suspect it is a fact that you've got that marvelous mixture. Your early success, Miss Olden, in another profession that I needn't name, would encourage the idea that you're not all heart and no head. I think, Nance, I shall have you mimic the artists during working hours and the business men when you're at play. I fancy apartment houses. They appeal to me. We'll call one 'The Nancy' and another 'Olden Hall' and another—"

"What'll I call the third apartment house, Mr. O?" I asked aloud, as I heard the rings on the portiere behind me click.

He didn't answer.

Without turning my head I repeated the question.

And yet—suddenly—before he could have answered, I knew something was wrong.

I turned. And in that moment a man took the seat beside me and another stood facing me, with his back against the portiere.

"Miss Olden?" the man beside me asked.

"Yes."

"You were at Mrs. Paul Gates' just a week ago, and you gave your specialties there?"

"Yes—yes, what is it you want?"

He was a little man, but very muscular. I could note the play of his muscles even in the slight motion he made as he turned his body so as to get between me and the audience, while he leaned toward me, watching me intently with his small, quick, blue eyes.

"We don't want to make any scene here," he said, very low. "We want to do it up as quietly as we can. There might be some mistake, you know, and then you'd be sorry. So should we. I hope you'll be reasonable and it'll be all the better for you because—"

"What are you talk—what—" I looked from him to the other fellow behind us.

He leaned a bit farther forward then, and pulling his coat partly open, he showed me a detective's badge. And the other man quickly did the same.

I sat back in my chair. The fat star on the stage, with her big mouth and big baby-face, was doing a cake-walk up and down close to the footlights, yelling the chorus of her song.

"I'll never mimic that song, Mag, although I can see her and hear it as plain as I can. I'd listened and watched her all my life. But there's no fun in it for me. I hate the very bars the orchestra plays before she begins to sing. I can't bear even to think of the words. The whole of it is full of horrible things—it smells of the jail—it looks like stripes—it—"

"You're not going to faint?" asked the man, moving closer to me.

"Me? I never fainted in my life."

"Where is he now—Tom Dorgan?"

"Tom Dorgan!"

"Yes. I was sure I saw him sail, but, of course, I was mistaken. He has sent you after me, has he? I can hardly believe it of Tom—even—even yet."

"I don't know anything that connects you with Dorgan. If he was in with you on this, you'd better remember, before you say anything more, that it'll all be used against you."

The curtain had gone down and gone up again. I was watching the star. She has such a boyish way of nodding her head, instead of bowing, after she waddles out to the center; and every time she wipes her lips with her lace handkerchief, as though she'd just taken one of the cocktails she makes in the play with all the skill of a bartender. I found myself doing the same thing—wiping my lips with that very same gesture, as though I had a fat, bare forearm like a rolling-pin—when all at once the thought came to me: "You needn't bother, Nancy. It's all up. You won't have any use for it all."

"Just what is the charge?" I asked, turning to the man beside me.

"Stealing a purse containing $300 from Mrs. Paul Gates' house on the night of April 27."

"What!"

It was Obermuller. He had pushed the curtains aside; the crashing of the orchestra had prevented our hearing the clatter of the rings. He had pushed by the man standing there, had come in and—he had heard.

"Nance!" he cried. "I don't believe a word of it." He turned in his quick ways to the men. "What are your orders?"

"To take her to her flat and search it."

TRADE SHOWS EVEN GROWTH

Official Indication of Large Crops Stimulates Activity in Business.

STOCKS ARE BEING REDUCED

Healthy Demand From Consumers in City and Country Causes Vacancies in Shelves to Delight the Hearts of Merchants.

Chicago, July 15.—The weekly review of Chicago trade, published by R. G. Dun & Co., says:

"Aside from a substantial subscription to the new Japanese loan allotted to the city and a firmer tone in money, financial conditions developed no important change. Trade exhibits an even progression. It has derived strength from the latest government report indicating large crops. The distribution of commodities maintained exceptional volume. Forwarding has been heavy in iron and steel products, steady in general merchandise, and close upon 10,000,000 bushels of grain, against 8,211,238 bushels last week, were moved. Railroad traffic almost equals the greatest aggregate throughout the west, and will be heavier, with increasing deliveries of farm products.

"The markets for cereals, provisions, hides, wool and leather exhibit further in season. Retail dealers undergo satisfactory reductions and current business in wholesale branches makes headway. Interior advances reflect absorbing agricultural conditions. Liberal absorption of supplies and mercantile collections are good.

"Manufacturing requirements of raw material are seen to be extending, and receipts gain in iron ore, forest product, hides and packing material. Mill and furnace production maintains a high volume, new shipments are sustained and the new orders booked for future delivery have reached a fair tonnage.

"Receipts of lumber, 57,859,000 feet, compare with 34,752,000 last week and 35,353,000 feet a year ago. Lumber remains strong in both demand and price, the consumption of building material is enormous and woodworkers are busy in building needs and furniture. Receipts of hides, 3,770,749 pounds, compare with 2,114,057 pounds last week and 2,217,118 pounds a year ago.

"Receipts of grain were 6,691,511 bushels, a gain of 155 per cent as compared with corresponding week last year, and the shipments, 3,268,979 bushels, gained 29.3 per cent.

WRECK IS LAID TO OPEN SWITCH

Workman Blamed for Disaster at Steger, Ill., Goes Into Hiding.

SUBURBAN AND SPECIAL CRASH

Lack of Safety Device on Temporary Switch Leads to Death of Two Persons and the Injury of Seventeen Passengers.

Chicago, July 15.—Another open switch catastrophe occurred Friday night. This time two persons were killed and seventeen injured in a head-on collision in the morning at Steger, Ill., twenty-nine miles from Chicago, between a northbound St. Louis train and a southbound suburban train on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railway. The wreck was due to the negligence of a member of a construction gang, named Daniel Nolan, and to the fact that the switch itself was only a temporary device, operated in primitive fashion.

A warrant was issued for Nolan, who disappeared after the collision, and a coroner's jury will attempt to fix the responsibility. Nolan is still missing.

List of the Dead.
George Epstein, 35 years old, Thornton, employed by Brownell Improvement company; caught in wreckage of smoker and killed instantly.
James Lyke, engineer on suburban train, 35 years old, 5056 State street, Chicago; crushed under engine of St. Louis train.

Operate Switch With Spike.
The switch which caused the accident was a "facing switch," similar to the one that figured in the wreck of a Lake Shore train at Mentor, Ohio, recently. It was operated with a spike. For three days the northbound trains had been using the regular track and the pin had not been drawn. Previously the same trains had switched to the suburban track and the spike had been pulled to permit their passage.

A laborer—Nolan—had been detailed to look after the switch. He is 50 years old and has worked for the railroad for ten years. Hitherto he was known as a good workman. But it appears he was absent minded, and there was no safety device to protect passengers. The spike was all there was to prevent a collision.

Trains Come Together.
Nolan pulled the spike, and a half an hour later dead and dying were lying under the wreckage. The suburban train, consisting of two coaches and an engine, leaving Chicago at 5:45 o'clock a. m., was just slowing up at the little station. The special, consisting of an engine and six cars, was running thirty miles an hour. Suddenly it left the northbound track and dashed across the switch and into the suburban train on the track adjoining.

The crash was heard throughout the town and residents hurried to the scene of the collision. The engine of the special train had plowed through the other and into the baggage car. Two of the heavy cars on the St. Louis train left the track. Fire and smoke arose from the debris of the engines.

Fireman Gives Warning.
Gilmore, the engineer of the limited train, was warned of the approaching collision by his fireman, Workings.

"The switch is open," Workings shouted.
In an instant Gilmore threw on the air brakes and reversed the lever. Then he followed Workings out of the cab in a wild leap for life. He escaped with a dislocated shoulder. Workings was not injured.

Trapped in the engine of the suburban train, Engineer Lyke was thrown from his seat under the heavy St. Louis engine. The latter overturned, crushing him to death. His body was recovered with difficulty. His fireman, F. E. O'Neill, escaped by jumping.

Most of the victims were in the combination baggage and smoker of the suburban train. Epstein was in the forward part of the smoker. He was crushed between the side of the car and his seat.

C. A. Schweitzer and his wife of Oklahoma City, Okla., who were on their wedding tour, were in the rear coach of the special. They were badly shaken up, but otherwise uninjured. In the ten days of their wedding journey they twice before had been in railroad wrecks, once at Jennings, Okla., and Sapulpa, I. T.

Witness Blame on Nolan.
Responsibility for the open switch was fixed on Nolan, the construction worker, by William Schmidt, a resident of Steger, who was standing on the station platform at 6:30 o'clock, and saw the man working around the switch.

"I saw him draw a spike out of the switch and brush the dirt from between the switch point and the rails. It never occurred to me what he was doing," said Schmidt. "The next thing I knew the two trains had come together. Nolan disappeared soon after ward."

New York, July 15.—The theatrical agents of this city had quite a shock administered to their pride when five hundred of them were compelled to take out license or else close up their offices. The action was taken by the authorities of the city because of the complaint of so many theatrical performers that the agents exacted extortionate fees from them.

TAFT PHILIPPINE JUNKET ARRIVES IN HONOLULU.

Many Plans for Their Entertainment Will Have to be Abandoned For Lack of Time.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Honolulu, July 15.—Secretary of War Taft and his special party in which is included Miss Alice Roosevelt, arrived here today on the steamer Manchuria. They were received with great enthusiasm by Americans here as well as native officials of Hawaii. Several plans have been made for their entertainment, but it will be impossible for all of them to be carried out because the stay of Mr. Taft and his guests will be too short and their schedule prevents any change in their plans.

Talking to One's Self.

Talking to one's self is generally considered a sign of a weak brain, says the "Family Doctor," but nothing could be a greater mistake. It is a sign of an extremely active brain. It may be a strong or a weak intellect, but the activity must be there to cause this peculiarity. If you will observe you will be astonished how many people you will meet in the street who are thinking aloud. The talking is done unconsciously.

A Considerate Fellow Was Inventor Fixem

"THERE goes Fixem, the celebrated inventor."

"Who? That little man across the street?"

"Yes. The one with the dent in his hat. Did you ever hear about his consideration for his wife?"

"No, but of course he would be kind to her."

"Sure. But she complained he staid out so late at night and caused her to lose sleep waiting up for him. So he invented a phonograph attachment for the clock so that every hour after midnight it would recite for fifteen minutes: 'John Henry Fixem, this is a pretty time of night for a respectable person to be coming home! Where in this world have you been? Don't tell me that. I know you haven't been at the office. If you ever dare to come home this way again I shall go home to my mother. What will the neighbors say? And a whole lot more like that.'—Chicago Tribune.

Shrewd Move.

Mrs. Fox—Great news! George is engaged to Miss Ruxley.
Mr. Fox—What! Our son engaged to Miss Ruxley? I must object!
Mrs. Fox—Nonsense! Are you out of your mind?
Mr. Fox—Not at all, but if we don't kick a little the Ruxleys will think we don't amount to much, and they'll probably call it all off.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Hopeless Case.

Mr. Sapphead—Charles Hirsch has actually disgraced his family by going into trade.

Miss Sulfuric—Let me see. He had already committed forgery, embezzlement and one or two other things, had he not?

Mr. Sapphead—Yes.
Miss Sulfuric—Well, what could you expect of a fellow like that?—Pittsburg Post.

Having It Understood.

"Yes," said the handsome young man, "I will be your husband, but—"

"Oh, Albert," cried the rich old lady, "do not say that I must not expect you to love me."

"No, I wasn't going to say that. I merely desire to inform you that you must not expect me to call you 'Baby' in public."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nothing Doing.

"Now that I have sold you a policy," said the insurance agent, "I will make you an interesting proposition. Give me some letters of introduction to people you know and I will give you half my commission on every one of them I land."

"My dear man," cried the new policy holder, "haven't an enemy on earth!"

There is a movement "on" foot among Pond du Lac business men to erect a new theatre to cost about $40,000.

Cause of Headaches.
As is naturally to be expected, the commonest cause of headaches is some nervous disturbance or weakness irritated by some experience which in prime condition of health would produce no perceptible effect. The common causes are therefore of two classes, namely, those which previously exist within the body and those which exist outside of it and excite the inner or latent evils into action.

Good Work Done by Invalids.

If a complete list of the fine examples of heroism of authors were compiled it would reach well out into the thousands and include a large number of illustrious names. In fact, it is said that few authors have done really great work except under adverse circumstances. Literature, as well as science, art and history, is indebted to pain and worry and suffering for some of its choicest gems.

Only One Letter Wrong.

"Business men should be careful," writes a correspondent of a London newspaper, "to read their typewritten correspondence before committing it to the post. I have received a typewritten letter from a gentleman of German extraction, who informs me that he is a 'wholesale tobaccoist and cigar imposter.'"
